River cruises in Russia

If you want to explore a new country, make a voyage through the heart of it. A river cruise appears to be the most comfortable and safe way of such trip. And river cruise in Russia gives you a unique opportunity to get acquainted with this country.

Russia has a well-developed network of internal waterways: its mighty rivers and majestic lakes are connected by man-made canals. Most of big cities (Moscow, Saint Petersburg, Samara, Nizhniy Novgorod, Kazan, Rostov-on-Don, Volgograd, Perm etc.) have riverside stations.

About river cruises

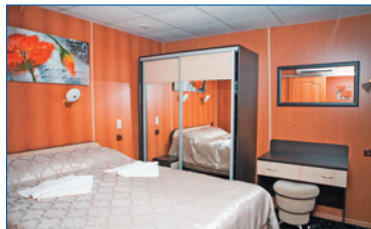

River cruise is obviously among the best types of journey. Just imagine:

- Unpack once and relax. A comfortable river-view stateroom gives you a sense of home as your floating hotel conveys you from one locale to another.
- Sailing smoothly and peacefully you admire changing scenery along the banks, fresh breeze on the open air decks and unforgettable sunsets over the river.
- Motor ship usually docks in the centre of town, just steps from museums, markets, cafes and other places of interest, so you can take a guided tour or walk off to sample local daily life.
- Your vacation's price remains constant as it includes full board meals, onboard entertainment program and interesting sightseeing excursions in ports of call.
- Since river vessels are mid-size and accommodate about 150-200 passengers, there are no crowds inside and no long queues to board or disembark.

Plan a new cruise

River cruises have so many advantages and only one drawback – they come to an end very quickly. When you return from the cruise you spend a lot of time showing wonderful pictures and sharing bright memories with your relatives and friends. And then... you start planning a new cruise!

Choose a Russian river cruise with INFOFLOT and you shall never regret!
